

Critical Quantitative Methods Work Week

Week Details

July 21-25, 2025

Virtual Sessions
1 PM - 4 PM AST

Registration

Scan or click QR code to register.

Description

With an aim of advancing the field of Critical Quantitative Methods, the Critical Quantitative Methods Work Week will be a virtual meeting space for faculty, students, and practitioners.

Engagement

There are three ways to engage in the Work Week. Organizers help to plan the events of the week. Presenters share their work and research. Attendees commit to attending the events of the week and interacting with presenters and each other towards the advancement of their own work and research.

Themes

Three themes will guide the presentations and discussions of the Critical Quantitative Work Week:

- ☼ Theory
- ☼ Practice
- ☼ Pedagogy

Organizer

David Sul, Ed.D. is the Research Assistant Professor of Measurement at the University of the Virgin Islands. He teaches Critical Quantitative Inquiry for the University of San Francisco and is the Owner and Principal of Sul & Associates International.